At Beacon Farmhouse we pride ourselves on all our young people engaging in education. Currently we have two young people in mainstream school, one young person attending Boston College and one young person engaging in education provided at the home.

All of our young people are supported by Direct Care's Tutor who either sets them work appropriate to their key stage or gives tutoring on an individual basis to help with any school or college work the young people may be struggling with.

One of our young people was recently given a certificate from the Head Teacher at her school for outstanding effort on a community project. The young person was extremely happy that her hard work had been acknowledged.

The aim at Beacon Farmhouse is to ensure that all young people receive an education and achieve their full potential in order to succeed in their future careers.

Beacon Business Club

At Beacon Farmhouse we run a Business Club which all the young people are encouraged to join. Within this club the young people are given job roles and titles such as Finance Manager and Operations Manager. The club has been set up to educate the young people on building their own business, being creative with new ideas and managing money. The club has produced items such as chutneys, apple sauce, horseradish sauce

“ The young people are given a share of the profits and flower arrangements to sell. The young people have written business plans and forecast of profit for these. The young people are given a share of the profits and the remainder of the money is either put back into the business for the next venture or used to purchase items for the home. The business club has already purchased a new computer for the young people to use at the home.
